Hardscaping consists of all of the harder design elements in your space like concrete, rocks, bricks, pavers, stone, and wood. It includes man-made structures such as decks, pergolas, or patio covers that are used specifically in your landscaping.

Landscaping consists of all of the "soft", or living, elements in your design such as grass, plants, trees, and flowers. When used properly, landscaping can quickly transform your outdoor space into a calm and relaxing oasis.

Using both landscaping and hardscaping elements together in your outdoor space can help with drainage and design layout, add value and curb appeal, and create a visually appealing experience around your home.
